

Principles of Nursing Code of Ethics

Justice and beneficence are two of the guiding principles of Nursing Code of Ethics. According to RN.ORG;" Justice is acting in fairness to all individuals, treating others equally and showing all individual the same degree of respect and concern. Beneficence is acting for the good and welfare of others and including such attributes as kindness and charity." We practice these principles everyday, they are part of our being as healthcare workers. We stand by our Black brothers and sisters. Their lives matter.
